

How to Be a Man Calendar

One thing I try very hard to do in my work is to maintain a sense of humor and lightness, because otherwise I would go crazy. Most of the time, the work has no room for this humor, but occasionally I get a project where I can let this out.

The assignment was to create a How-To calendar, and I chose to portray a (somewhat) legitimate subject in a satirical way. While the pressures put on woman in our society to be a certain way is absolutely a much more prominent problem, it is definitely there for men as well. I find the Ford-esque commercials of giant men grilling meat in their huge trucks hilarious, and was inspiration for this calendar.