

Travel Poster & Train Schedule

After tediously redesigning a disgustingly bad train schedule, we got to the enjoyable part of designing a travel poster of certain vacation routes. Being Irish, I immediately was drawn to the Ireland circuit.

With so many options to come off as incredibly cliché with this poster, I did everything in my power not to be. I wanted to focus on the beautiful old-style churches and stained glass you can visit while there. The amount of color in this poster helps it stay as one of my favorite pieces I have done, because I can never get enough color.
